

Red Water Natural Skin Care

Thermal Spring Water Natural Dermocosmetics

The Skin Conscious Water Therapy

From ancient times until today, thermal spring water has been acknowledged for its unique benefits in different sections of human health. The Red Water line of natural dermocosmetics is based on thermal spring water that counts from Loutrochori spring, in historic Pella in Greece, and is known worldwide for its exceptionally beneficial qualities. Water rich in minerals and trace elements, of high energy and action, which rejuvenates and invigorates the skin.

The Red Water products were designed to combine the elements which are beneficial to the skin. Elements of the Loutrochori source thermal spring water, with olive oil and vital plant extracts of the Greek Nature. With intense care and devotion, where well-being is concerned, the people of Red Water Laboratories who had the inspiration, studied and manufactured the products, focusing on their ideal content in essences which are salutary, natural and rejuvenating. The result: A unique, fresh and complete proposal of cosmetic care from olive oil and herbs, with the highly interactive energy of thermal spring water.

The Red Water products are perfectly compatible with the physiology of the skin. The first priority of the scientific group creating the formulas was the efficiency of products, with respect to the nature of the skin. The Red Water range is a creation of scientific and aesthetic integrity, and is made from environmentally-friendly ingredients.

In the production are not used any irritating conservatives Parabens, petroleum derivatives and by-products. They are free of propylene glycol, silicones and genetically mutated substances. Contain allergen-free fragrances and are not tested on animals.